FEAST OF SAINT PETER AND PAUL

One day, many years ago, twelve men and their Leader were walking together along a road in Palestine. This was not an unusual sight. And it was not at all unusual for them to stop by the wayside to rest and to talk together in one group.

Of course, you have guessed that the Leader was Jesus, and that the twelve men were the apostles, His close friends.

As they talked together, Jesus asked a question which may seem strange to you. "Whom do men say that I am?"

His friends told their Master that some people said he was John the Baptist, some said Elijah, and some Jeremiah. Then Jesus looked earnestly into the eyes of each of His friends and asked, "But whom do You say I am?" Peter answered, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God!"

Years have come and gone and the Leader whom many people did not recognize as the Son of God when He was on earth today has millions of followers who have answered as Peter did. We owe to St. Peter and Paul the priceless treasure of the Christian faith. They handed Christ's teachings down to us. From them we received the Holy Gospel and the letters of the Apostles. They laid a firm foundation for the Church of Christ. All that we have we owe to their apostolic labors and their prayers. This is why we celebrate this Feast as a Holy Day of Obligation.

EVERYTHING BEGINS AT HOME

Home is the beginning point; not just the good, but all too often what is evil also.

Honesty begins at home. Respect for law and order begins at home. A sense of duty begins at home. Respect for people of other color and creeds begins at home. And religion has its first beginnings in the home.

CHURCH IN THE WORLD

The Church does not cease to be the Church when Sunday Liturgies are over.

On Monday morning, it is scattered in offices, schools, shops, factories, and homes, but it is no less the Church than it was the day before.

As someone has summarized it in an arresting sentence, the People of God come together in the Church in order that they may go out to be the Church in the world.

WHAT IS HOPE

Hope is the rosy dawning; and the noonday sun; Hope is the star of evening, when tasks of day are done. Hope is the gift eternal which God offers everyone.

WILL THE ROAD YOUR ON GET YOU TO HEAVEN?
